

AOTA CENTENNIAL TOUR

LECTURE

Working on the Margin: Occupational Therapy and Social Justice

PRESENTED BY:

Jennifer Creek, PhD, FCOT, DiCOT,
and Kit Sinclair, PhD, FWFOT, FAOTA

This talk describes a range of marginal settings where occupational therapists are finding or creating roles for themselves, working with; for example, homeless people, refugees, disabled people, those with severe and enduring mental illness, drug addicts and people living in extreme poverty. The concepts of marginalization and intersectionality are discussed, including the impact that these conditions have on occupation, health and well-being. This presentation is eligible for one (1) PDU credit.

Wednesday, May 3 • 5:00 - 6:00 p.m.

Program in Occupational Therapy Auditorium
4444 Forest Park Ave.
St. Louis, MO 63108-2292

To register for this free event, visit bit.ly/creek-sinclair

CO-SPONSORED BY:

Center for Diversity and Inclusion

STUDENT AFFAIRS AT WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY

DOISY COLLEGE OF HEALTH SCIENCES

Washington
University in St. Louis

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Occupational Therapy